The Marcia G. Taylor
WOMEN'S CENTER

The Marcia G. Taylor WOMEN'S CENTER

Building a family is a special time, so Henry Medical Center's Women's Center provides whatever services an expectant mother, new mom or infant might need.

Expectant parents can attend childbirth and breastfeeding classes to prepare for their newest family member. Older children can join the experience by attending Sibling School, where they learn about their new roles as big brothers and sisters.

When delivery day arrives, our staff helps you celebrate the miracle of birth. You can rest easy in knowing we have state-of-the-art facilities—including a Level III Neonatal Intensive Care Unit with specially-trained nurses and specialized equipment for newborns who need extra care.

We offer:

- State-of-the-Art Labor and Delivery unit
- Mother-Baby unit where families learn to confidently care for their new baby
- Level III Neonatal Intensive Care
- Women's surgery unit that cares for women requiring complex surgery or cancer treatment
- Latest technology in minimally invasive surgery

Classes Offered

Let's Get Acquainted is a 1-hour program offered on the 1st Tuesday of each month for expectant parents-to-be. Tour the Marcia G. Taylor Women's Center, and learn about what to expect when arriving for the birth of your baby. This tour is for adults only.

Sibling Orientation Class & Hospital Tour: A free 1-hour program. This program helps to prepare siblings for the arrival of their new brother or sister. This program for children ages 2 to 10 years old. The program also includes a tour of the Newborn Nursery and information about what to expect when the new baby arrives. All classes will be held in the North Tower 4th Floor Maternal Child Conference Room beginning at 7 p.m.
